

Stones are currently on display

Here at Imoribori-enchi Park, is where the stones recovered from the damaged walls are stored. A visitor route has been set up so you can get a close look at each stone, an opportunity not normally open to the public. Explanatory panels have been installed, describing the characteristics of each stone wall and showing photos taken before and after the disaster, along with displays of the recovered stones. Visitors are welcome to touch the stones. Please go and have a look!
